

James Jagodzinski

"Effective business tax planning is not just about minimizing liabilities; it's about maximizing opportunities for sustainable growth and success within the ever-changing landscape of regulations and incentives."

Jamey is a Principal at DHJJ with over 14 years of experience serving privately held businesses and their owners. Before working at DHJJ, Jamey spent his career at a Top Ten accounting firm with a focus on tax. He has experience with income tax matters for closely held businesses, including tax planning, transaction planning, and assisting with IRS and State income tax examinations. Jamey focuses on clients in the manufacturing and distribution industry and has experience with various industries, including professional services, food and beverage, and high-net-worth individuals.

Jamey attended DePaul University and graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Accountancy and a Master of Science in Taxation. In the community, Jamey previously spent several years active in the Technology and Manufacturing Association, serving on the Supplier Network Committee.

Jamey and his wife Laura live in Plainfield with their son and daughter. Outside of work, Jamey enjoys spending time with his family, playing golf, and enjoying the outdoors.

Outside of Work:

Jamey grew up in Channahon, IL and now lives in Plainfield, IL with his wife and two children.
